College: University of South Carolina

Career: 1988-1994 (Green Bay Packers)
8,134 receiving yards and 65 touchdowns

Honors: 5x Pro Bowl Selection
(1989-1990, 1992-1994)

In college, Sharpe was a star receiver for the South Carolina Gamecocks. During his time there, Sharpe set the record for most career receptions (169), receiving yards (2,497), and touchdowns (17), the last of which has since been broken. While he was there, he also set the single-season touchdown record (11), which he held until 2005. At the end of the 1987 season, the University of South Carolina retired Sharpe's #2 jersey, making him only the second active player to have his jersey retired.

Sharpe retired back in 1994, and has gone on to be a football analyst. He started his broadcasting career with ESPN as a commentator. Sharpe has since moved on to the NFL Network, working with Kurt Warner and Brian Billick on Thursday Night Kickoff from Los Angeles, as well as Joe Theismann and Billick on NFL Network's "Playbook".
